Haunted House Extravaganza

The line-up was way out in the street, even during heavy rain and a loud thunderstorm, for the four night Haunted House screamatazia, at the SHYFT House. A partnership between Youth Truth Matters and SHYFT Youth produced a truly scary experience for those who dared to enter. In the process, $1,600 in donations was raised for SHYFT. How frightfully stunning is that? Many thanks to all who planned or participated in this spectacular show.

Above: Haunted House inhabitants obliged the crowds who were just dying to be terrified.

This 3 year project is working with youth and community to address and have a positive impact on limiting the use of illicit drugs in South West Nova Scotia.

The project facilitators in each county are working with the youth leaders to create youth-led approaches to dealing with illicit drugs. Community Advisory Committees are being formed in each county to work with the youth and facilitators - if you are interested let us know. Please visit the website www.youthtruthmatters.com for more information on the project and to see all the work the youth have completed to-date.

Ginger Mackenzie of Mackenzie Security has pledged $ 100 per month for one year to SHYFT and is challenging other businesses to do likewise. "We have to make a commitment for youth to have a place to sleep. A little per month can go a long way," is her message to the commercial community. We applaud her initiative.

Hangar Sale a First

Yarmouth International Airport's giant hangar was the unusual venue for a late fall sale in aid of SHYFT on 3 rd November, thanks to the generosity of airport manager David Hill and his board of directors.

This was the first such community event on this site but there are rumours that it might not be the last. Young and old came to find wonderful treasures, crafts and baked goods and two $ 50 door-prizes were won, thanks to the generosity of Tusket Sales and Service. In total $ 570 was raised for SHYFT. Thanks to all those who made this possible.
